

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information processing apparatus comprises a first input device capable of inputting character information, a second input device capable of inputting 5 coordinates, and a handwritten character recognizing unit which recognizes character information based on the coordinates input by the second input device.